

TOOK A SHOT AT A GUEST.

The Last Number on a Social Party Programme.

J. H. TRUSCHLER AS A BAD MAN.

Uses a Pistol at Honokaa—Teamster Kiser was His Mark—Clean Miss—Story of a Wife's Faithfulness—Ran Away from Here.

A STORY of quite a sensational turn came to town from Hawaii with the Waialeale Wednesday morning. It is a tale of love and liquor and a pistol, of a deserted husband, a faithless wife, a jealous paramour, and an outside wooer. The time of the most exciting incident was Saturday evening last and the place was Honokaa, where Jos. Marsden was at one time leader of the village orchestra. J. H. Truschler took a shot at John Kiser. It was a miss. Truschler was excited and Kiser was running.

J. H. Truschler left Honolulu about a month ago. Besides taking along a cobbler's outfit he had another man's wife. The husband thus wronged is a soldier at the barracks. He is a very worthy sort of a man and has the sympathy of all who know of the affair. His married daughter remains in the city. She feels keenly the blow that has fallen on the family. The husband is a barber and follows his calling at the post.

The deserted husband said yesterday that his wife took with her about $400 of his money. He had saved $700 up to a few months ago. To quiet his wife he turned the entire sum over to her. She had disposed of $300 of it before going away with Truschler. The latter for a long time had a small shop on Fort street, mauka of Hotel. He was a drinking man and never did very well. He was the woman's advisor when the husband sought legal redress. When the courts failed to give satisfaction Truschler prevented a reconciliation that friends were arranging for man and wife.

There was a party at the Truschler Honokaa house last Saturday night. Drinkables were served and everybody had a good time. At the windup the furniture was chucked about in rough fashion. Truschler and Kiser had a few words about this. Before that they had indulged in a spat over the favor of the woman.

When Truschler began abusing Kiser about the furniture the latter stood his ground. The woman tried to calm Truschler and made a sign to Kiser to leave to avoid trouble. This was on the lanai. Truschler became greatly enraged. After cursing and threatening he went inside for a pistol. Kiser started away at double-quick when Truschler appeared with the weapon. The shot whizzed past his head and made him put on more steam.

The ADVERTISER's informant says the details of the affair are known all over the district, but that the police appear to be unable to get at the facts. The officers are making an investigation. Kiser, who is a teamster, was asked to make a complaint in court against Truschler. He declined to do this.

A BIG JUDGMENT SATISFIED.

The Timely Appearance of a Check Stops a Land Sale.

S. M. Damon, as Trustee for Colonel Sam Norris, handed Deputy Marshal Brown a check for $15,584.15 Wednesday to satisfy an execution. The property belonging to Mr. Norris was to be sold at auction at noon unless the money was paid in before the hour. The check was presented about ten minutes before twelve so the sale of the Kahuku Ranch did not take place.

The judgment against Colonel Norris was obtained by Mrs. de Herblay, of New York, after a legal contest that lasted for over four years in the courts of this country. It is said that the original claim was for $4000; interest, court costs, and attorneys' commissions, swelled it to the amount of the judgment.

Samoan Affairs.

The German cruiser Falke has visited Savaii for the purpose of warning the disaffected chiefs there. The captain of the cruiser sent ashore a pinnace and an invitation to the rebel chiefs to visit the Falke. It took them 24 hours of thinking before the warriors could see their way clear to accept the proffered hospitality of the German naval officer. A number of loyal chiefs had at once gone off to the cruiser, but not so the others, who probably suspected that the German intended to spirit them away to sojourn with their ex-colleague Matana in the Marshall Islands. Captain Von Moltke, of the Falke, was eventually favorably with a visit from the ex-ship hunters or "head cutters" as they were described in a recent fight. He administered a wholesome lesson to them, laying stress especially upon the foolish statement alleged to have emanated from Tamasese that in a little while the rebels would receive German support. Notwithstanding the captain's warning it was current in Apia the day the Mariposa sailed that the rebel cause is spreading. Despite this condition of native affairs the jubilee celebration of the Malua School (London Missionary Society) drew together 3000 Samoans and the services lasted two days.—Sydney Herald.

SUSPENDED BY A SILKEN SASH.

Dainty Suicide of a Liquor-Crazed Japanese.

He Loved an Ewa Maiden and Was Rebuffed—Drowned His Sorrow in Saki—Coroner's Inquest Held.

ICE taste was displayed in one feature of the suicide of Mr. Matsumoto. He was found hanging by the neck in Fowler's yard Wednesday at 6 A. M. The man used a handsome black silk sash for a line. He passed a slip-noose over his head and made fast the double end to a plank. Fowler's yard is otherwise known as the Mechanics' Home. It is located near the corner of Nuuanu and Hotel, with entrances from both streets. Matsumoto was not a guest of the lodging house. He simply took the liberty of trespassing and taking his life on the premises. The proprietor is much vexed over the affair, but has no recourse. Matsumoto did not leave any rich relatives.

This Japanese came to Hawaii as a contract laborer in 1891. He served his time on a Kauai plantation and was booked to return to his own country by the Nanshan, sailing today. His savings amounted to $70 and he had the money in the Yokohama Specie Bank.

For a week or more Matsumoto has been at Ewa. He was in love with a Japanese girl at the big plantation. A rival or relative drove him away. He came to town and laid himself out to drink all the saki in sight. He was doing very well for one small man when a particularly vicious dose of the stuff knocked his intellects "topside up" as the Chinese say.

Matsumoto made his headquarters at one of the many Japanese hotels on Smith street. He was about the place a couple of hours Wednesday evening and was acting like a crazy man.

Fowler yard people told the police of the hanging and Capt. Scott brought the body to the station. An inquest was held at noon.

Four witnesses were examined by the coroner's jury, one of whom was the landlord of the place where the deceased lived. He stated that the last time he saw Matsumoto alive was on Tuesday night about ten o'clock. He appeared to be feeling badly because he had no money with which to return home.

The watchman at Fowler's yard related how he discovered the body hanging from the stairway.

Dr. Cooper stated that he had examined the body; he stripped it and made a careful examination for any marks of violence but did not find any. He saw a discoloration which completely encircled the neck, and caused by a silk sash, in one end of which a slip noose had been made and was still tightly drawn around the neck when the examination was made. The doctor concluded his remarks by stating that death was undoubtedly caused by strangulation.

The jury brought in a verdict of suicide.

Who Made This Neat Puzzle?

We should like to know the name of the author of the following puzzle and anagram:

A—old woman with—intent
Put on her—-and to market went:
"—," said she, "give me, I pray,
The wherewithal to—this day."

Each of the blanks is to be filled with a word of four letters and the same letters occur in each of the five different words. These words are consecutively, "vile," "evil," "veil," "Levi," and "live." We repeat that we are curious to learn the name of the author of this ingenious anagram puzzle.—Chicago Record.

Collector Wise of San Francisco is After Them—Writes Twice to Mr. Spreckels—Operations Detailed—800 Tons Are To Be Sent Through.

OS'N BEN, who is on the reef here for handling opium off the Australia, is mentioned in San Francisco papers as one of the tools of a powerful ring. H. C. Foss, a clerk on the Oceanic dock at the Coast, is given prominence as one of the main men in the combination. The Federal authorities have asked his employers to remove him.

Early in October, says the San Francisco Call, Collector Wise wrote a letter to John D. Spreckels asking him to dismiss certain of his employees, whom the agent of the Government has good reason to believe are smuggling. The letter is still unanswered and the employees whose names and offenses were given in it are still on the payroll of the ship-owner.

The Collector is at a loss to explain the situation and just before leaving the city, October 25th, for a trip to San Diego, sent another epistle to Mr. Spreckels. If this latter communication does not have the desired effect Mr. Wise will see what can be accomplished by a personal visit.

Among the persons who were named as suspects when the Collector wrote were employees on the Oceanic dock and members of the crew of the Australia.

Their plan of operation at present, according to the Call, is to have the opium shipped as merchandise in transit from Victoria to Honolulu or to some Central American port. The packages come to San Francisco and it is alleged their contents are changed while in the hands of the suspects. The opium is removed and the boxes are stuffed with trash and sent on to a member of the ring at Honolulu or some other port.

It will be remembered that eight hundred tons of opium shipped from Victoria as books for a priest of Honolulu were seized several months ago and are still in the custody of the United States Marshal of California. The seizure was made before the opium could be removed and books substituted. What will become of the drug is a question that is puzzling the authorities. It cannot be sent on to Honolulu for the importation of opium is forbidden by the new Republic. It is now known beyond question that it belonged to the Emerald ring. Greenwald, one of the Emeralds, who is now serving a sentence of six years in the penitentiary, has given Attorney Riordan power to sue the Government for the drug, and the case will be tried early next term.

While Mr. Spreckels has taken his time for answering the Collector's letter, there is reason to believe that he has not ignored its contents.

The San Francisco customs people fear that they will be compelled to give back the eight hundred tons, as a claim has been made for it. If it be decided that the authorities had no right to seize the opium they will send it on to Honolulu and let the customs officials here take what action they please. Of course they will seize the stuff.

A Wonderful Discovery.

ANGIER'S PETROLEUM EMULSION.

A preparation of purified petroleum combined with the hypophosphites. Cures consumption if taken in time.

Not unpleasant to take.—Testimonial of Mr. Walton.

Ancient Use of Petroleum.

As a remedial agent petroleum was known to the ancients by whom it was considered a sovereign remedy.

Literature on the Subject.

It is only within recent years that the properties of petroleum have been discussed through the medical journals. Articles have appeared and given, in very positive language, the most gratifying results from its use, both as medicine and as a reconstructive. Great value is attributed to petroleum in the treatment of consumption, bronchitis, la grippe, catarrh, asthma, diseases of the digestive apparatus and of the kidneys, as well as in wasting diseases. It appears to have especial value in all pulmonary complaints.

Former Drawbacks to Its Use.

The reason why petroleum has not been more general in use is due to the fact that, in its unpurified state, it has nauseating and irritating properties. After exhaustive experiments Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was secured. It is deprived of all objectionable features while retaining the valuable medicinal qualities, and is acceptable to both palate and stomach.

Petroleum Emulsion vs. Cod Liver Oil.

All who have ever tried Cod Liver Oil know what a nauseating dose it is. It is impossible to disguise the disagreeable taste and odor of the Oil. The palate and stomach revolt against it.

Every Mother Loves

To see her children strong and healthy. If the little ones are troubled with coughs, croup, or are thin and puny, or have any wasting disease, they can be brought back to health by Angier's Emulsion. Children will take it readily who resist taking Cod Liver Oil.

It Saved My Life.

"Six months ago, I was told by three physicians that I had quick consumption. I was coughing badly, had hemorrhages and profuse night sweats. I was rapidly wasting away. I tried Cod Liver Oil, but could not retain it. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was then prescribed. It agreed with me perfectly. I then weighed 102 pounds. Now after taking it 6 months I weigh 161 pounds. I consider myself cured and attribute it all to Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. B. H. WALTON, Bedford, Mass."

Tell Your Sick Friends.

It is worth your while to give Angier's Petroleum Emulsion a trial. Have you any friends with colds or consumption? Tell them about it. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion can be obtained from
